Description

Myson Cliprail systems securely attach Floortec underfloor heating pipework to floor insulation using robust U-shaped channels. This cost-effective solution is ideal for both traditional and liquid screeds. The pipe is laid in a serpentine pattern, providing optimal heat distribution.

Area of Application

The Cliprail is ideal for solid floor constructions, supporting both traditional and liquid screeds. It's designed for attaching Myson Floortec underfloor heating pipework to floor insulation. Suitable for residential, commercial, and renovation projects involving floor heating.

Selection Criteria

For detailed selection and calculation, use our design service. For a quick selection, refer to our brochure.

Basic User Instructions

Install the Cliprail U-profiles on the floor insulation using the supplied pins. Ensure the underfloor heating pipework is securely attached to the Cliprail. Follow the prescribed serpentine laying pattern, routing hotter pipes to higher heat loss areas first. No floor insulation is provided with the system.

Prescription text specifiers

Myson Cliprail is a reliable and efficient system for attaching underfloor heating pipes to floor insulation. It features robust 1m U-shaped channels with fixing positions every 50mm, suitable for both traditional and liquid screeds. The pipes are laid in a serpentine pattern, making the Cliprail ideal for various heating projects. Installation does not include floor insulation. The product is fast, cost-effective, and ensures secure pipe attachment, making it perfect for residential, commercial, and renovation projects involving underfloor heating.
